

Fall Cocktail Certification

Closed book. No build sheet, no phone, no asking the bartender next to you. A bartender is certified on this menu at 54 of 59 written points and three correct builds on the bar. Anything less is a re-test, not a pass.

SECTION 2

What gets sent back

18 POINTS

Two points each. These are the mistakes that actually come back to the bar.

- ① Which drink on this menu is never shaken, and what happens if you shake it?

- ② Where does the Pernod go on a Green Goddess, and at what point in the build?

3 When is the soda added to a No New Friends, and why never in the tin?

4 Which two drinks are served up, and what does that mean for the glass?

5 What must you do before you start building an Espresso Martini?

6 In what order do the two LMF 2.0 garnishes go on, and why does it matter?

7 Why do you strain over fresh ice instead of the ice you shook with?

8 Which drink has no fixed total pour, and why?

9 A guest orders a drink and you are out of the biz. What do you do?

SECTION 3

Build it on the bar

PASS / FAIL

The certifying manager picks three drinks at random and watches the full build. Every line has to be checked for the build to count. One missed line is a failed build.

AUTOMATIC RE-TEST

Wrong glass, wrong garnish, a missed ingredient, or any free-poured measure fails that build outright, whatever the written score. Specs are not a matter of judgement.

1. Scarlett Spritz. It is built in the glass. Shaking flattens the Prosecco.

2. In the glass, not the tin. Rinse and dump the excess before you shake.
3. After the shake, in the glass. Shaking soda kills the bubbles and can blow the tin apart.
4. Chai Hard and Espresso Martini. Chilled coupe, no ice in the glass.
5. Ask the guest which liquor they want. It is the only spec with no liquor written into it.
6. Dragonfruit powder first, then the calendula. Dusting over the flowers buries them.
7. Shaken ice is chipped and already melting; it waters the drink down in the glass.
8. No New Friends. The soda tops the glass rather than being measured.
9. Tell the guest it is unavailable and call it to the bar lead. Never substitute or free-pour a replacement.
